Naval Planes and Destroyers Searching North Atlantic Fogbanks In Effort To Gain New Contact With Nazis

LONDON, May 26.—(CPI)—British Swordfish planes and speedy destroyers were searching fogbanks of the North Atlantic today in a vengeance-driven effort to put a Royal Navy squadron back in battle contact with Germany's big new Bismarck and her supporting ships.

The navy's torpedo-carrying planes scored at least one hit Saturday night on the German squadron, which broke off the engagement after the 35,000-ton Bismarck sank the 42,100-ton battle cruiser Hood, world's largest warship, earlier that day. The Hood carried a complement of approximately 1,300.

The British admiralty said the Bismarck was damaged during the fight and expressed hope this and the torpedo hits would be enough so it might be overtaken on Monday. There were hints, however, that the Bismarck might be heading for the coast.

Today's War Moves

By British United Press
The significance of the engagement between the British battle cruiser Hood and the German battle cruiser Bismarck was quite beyond the intrinsic loss to the British navy of such a large unit of its fleet.

The loss of the Hood to the British navy, it raises the possibility of a decisive battle.

"Let's finish the job"

CANADA!
Ypres, April 22-24, 1915

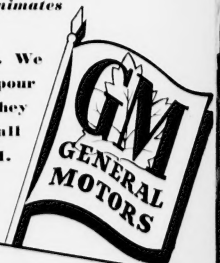

In this famous drawing from Pusey, Sir Bernard Partridge commemorated for all time the heroic stand of Canada's First Division against poison gas and overwhelming odds. As our soldiers held the line then, so Canada must hold it now.

TO US - THE TORCH IS THROWN

A generation ago, from Flanders Fields, our soldier dead threw us their torch to hold it high, as they had held it from Second Ypres to Mons, from Somme to Passchendaele.

For four years they kept their rendezvous with death. They knew no peers but the living who served with them, and their spirit so animated the Canadian Corps that it became the spearhead of victory. That same spirit animates our troops today.

We hold the torch. We cannot do less than pour out our dollars as they pour out their all — FOR FREEDOM.

Hess Seemed Best Of Nazis In 1936

By BILL CUNNINGHAM

YOUR guess is as good as any—body is to why Rudolf Hess, the Nazi minister of foreign affairs, was the one to win the prize of being the most popular of the German leaders in the eyes of the world's foreign press in 1936. It was the year that the young Slim Lindbergh's Atlantic crossing into second place in terms of popularity.

EXCLUSIVE

of bulk appeal and affluence command. And that seems to be exactly what for the course even after studying the cards turned out to be London and Berlin.

I had a chance to study at close range the links, mannerisms and even some of the conversation of the entire affair of Joe Louis in Berlin in 1936, and as it chances, I was the one I really met and hung conversation with.

I met the quiet and rather handsome Rudolf first without realizing who he was, or what he represented. He studied briefly about the games of London, which, I am sure, he spoke about as well as a German ever does.

TALKED OF OLYMPIC IDEAL

It was only a chance meeting, but I remembered the words he said: "I am not a German, I am a human being, and I am a human being." He was the one I really met and hung conversation with.

That rang in a full chord in memory when I saw the German patches from London and Berlin. He was trying to contact the German people, a fellow enthusiast at the Winter Games in Antwerp, and that possibly he felt war between Britain and Germany could be ended by talking the Olympic ideal of fair play and a clear break.

I met him later with Schmeling, and this time we sat at a table and chatted along for an hour or so. Max and I did most of the talking, and it was mostly translation.

I got to thinking back later that Hess would do as much.

I was on the quiet side, but he was on the interested side. He was of better than medium height, with a face something like Schmeling's, which is to say something like Jack Dempsey's.

The difference was in his eyes. His eyes were memorable. They were deep, gray-green, and they seemed to smoulder with more than a hint of deep-seated fanaticism. Under abnormally black and bushy eyebrows. His hair was black.

Calgary Chinooks Defeat Buffaloes But Lose To Pats

Calgary Chinooks broke even in the two games played at Kingsway Park on Victoria Day against the Buffaloes and Army and Navy Pats of the local Senior City Softball League.

Talking on the Buffs in the 3 o'clock affair, the Chinooks lost a 4-4 draw, but they had to go on extra time to do it. The 7 o'clock game was altogether different. For the Pats ran up 17 hits and made them count for an 11-3 victory.

Helen Nichol was the chinking for the Chinooks in the afternoon game. She was largely responsible for the victory won. The former Manitowish pitcher struck out 14 Buffaloes and gave only two walks.

Annabelle Thompson for the Buffs was picked for 11 hits and struck out three, but big up as five plays.

The Buffaloes made a big bid to kick off the game in the first inning. Edna Harris, who was picked to start off. A walk to Victor Wynn, a three-bagger by Jean Barst and a fumble on the part of the Chinooks accounted for the three runs.

In the fifth game Philpotts was again on an error and Cleve McNally made her fourth hit of the game. Philpotts was out on a fly ball. McNally reached first on a fender-chance and then Helen Nichol struck out a fender-chance.

Japan Air Force Will Never Be Able To Halt Traffic On Burma Road Chinese Make Automobile Ferries Out Of Gasoline Drums To Replace Bombed Bridges

Following is the fourth of a series of five articles by A. T. Steele in which he describes the appalling bomb damage that has sprung up along the Burma Road—EDITOR.

By A. T. STEELE

KUNMING, Southwest China.—(Via Clipper).—(CDN)—The Japanese air force may bomb the Burma road from now until doomsday, but it is doubtful whether this way alone they will ever be able to halt or seriously impede the ever-growing traffic in supplies.

Frequently Japanese communities have announced stoppage of the Burma Road traffic through damage or destruction of the two vital bridges crossing the Salween and Mekong rivers. This is what thinking. Bridges have been battered and even destroyed at times, traffic has been slowed up at no time has it been halted.

On my trip over the road, I made both the river crossings by auto. There was not the slightest exception at either place. Automobile ferries made of gasoline drums were used in readiness at both crossings—merely utilizing the fact that the bridges go out. Formerly the capacity of these ferries was not quite adequate for all arriving trucks. There were long lines of waiting cars and trucks for hours. This is what I now believe that the reason the traffic can be handled.

THE BRIDGES

The first of the two big bridges we came to was the 300-foot Salween bridge, a fine example of the rushing torrent originating in Tibet. The bridge had been hit and repaired on repeated occasions. Yet the bridge we crossed passed without a hitch. The second bridge was the same bridge the Chinese had built at the opening of the highway—a pre-war bridge. The Salween valley is a tremendous gash in China's southwestern mountain. It is a 26-mile descent from a 7,500-foot summit to the level of the river where the altitude is only 2,500 feet. On the way down we descended through a series of steep, jagged peaks. The Salween valley is a tremendous gash in China's southwestern mountain. NO WORLD NEWS

It was late in the evening of the third day out that we drove up to the walled island town of Paoshan. We had heard no news of the world events since leaving Lashio and were impatient to hear of the Balkan campaign. So in the darkness we stumbled through the narrow, deserted streets to the home of a missionary, thinking he would surely have a radio. After much pounding, the door was opened and Frank Tuck of Paoshan, a loud-headed Englishman, wearing his nightgown, greeted us. We explained the reason for our intrusion and asked for news.

"But I have no news," he said sympathetically. "I usually get it from travellers like you."

"Well, perhaps you can tell us, anyway, what has happened in Yugoslavia since the invasion," we implored him. Finally, he replied:

"Has Yugoslavia been invaded?"

"I haven't heard."

On the following day, we crossed the Mekong, where the Japanese bombing had been more effective than at the Salween. The suspension bridge of six months ago was no more—wiped out by a bomb which had struck its support. A steel bridge, hastily built, had suffered the same fate. So now the resilient Chinese, as industrious and unencouraged as ants—had built a third bridge across the torrent, in the second line of six weeks. It was a suspension span, whose cables had been wound on the next four miles shipped from Burma. Near the bridge lay all-drum ferries, unworkable and almost indestructible, ready to do duty in the interim should a fourth bridge become necessary.

MANY OTHER USES

The Chinese have found many other uses, incidentally, for the gallon containers in which American oil and gasoline are shipped to China. They are useful for making culverts and drain pipes. I have seen these employed for building walls and houses. Hundreds of them in Burma, refilled with fuel, in readiness for American troops.

I was surprised to note along the Burma Road that through all trucks entering China are bursting with cargo, more than half of the remaining vehicles are empty. This wasteful condition is apparently only due to the fact that there is sufficient fuel and transport in the interior of China makes it impossible to feed export goods to the Burma road in large quantities.

ESCAPED ACCIDENT

We escaped accident on the Burma road, but there were some narrow escapes. Ninety per cent of the vehicles on the highway are of American make and nearly all show the scars and bruises of collision. Numerous breakdowns have stalled abandoned along the highway, waiting spare parts for weeks in some cases. Here and there one encounters a mangled, hopelessly wrecked car. New Democracy Leader States Party's Stand

OTTAWA, May 26.—(CP)—Scientific reform of the monetary system as a means of strengthening the Canadian dollar was advocated by J. H. Blackmore, New Democracy leader, in the House of Commons, in a broadcast address Saturday night.

"The monetary system was one of a weekly series of opposition leaders' talks broadcast over the radio. He said the Canadian dollar was being weakened by the long list of waiting cars and trucks for hours. This is what I now believe that the reason the traffic can be handled.

Minister Asks Nation To Buy Victory Bonds

OTTAWA, May 26.—(CP)—Finance Minister, Henry, in a radio address Friday night appealed to Canadians to "Examine your resources, to get ready to buy Victory bonds in the limit of your financial power."

"Help to save our arms; help to save our freedom; help to finish the job," he said, speaking on behalf of the $600,000,000 Victory loan opening June 2.

The loan drive was carried over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

"The navy, the army and the air force are three vital arms of our defense and offensive military power," Mr. Henry said. "Money is the lifeblood of the nation."

"I'd better put on knee-proof lipsticks. I might knock the ball in the woods and this new instructor might help me look for it."

After England's Recent West Coast Blitz Raid — First Ball Game — Ambulance Drivers Aboard Zamzam May Be Prisoners

At the left a milkman in Plymouth steps over the rubble caused by Nazi bombs to deliver his milk as usual, even though the night had brought with it one of the most vicious Nazi raids of the war. Many of his customers were killed or injured and many of the homes along his route were wiped out. At the right a victim of the Nazi bombing of Liverpool is being helped by two air raid wardens. They are taking her to a reception centre where her head will be bandaged and she will otherwise be cared for.

U.S. INDUSTRY'S RISING OUTPUT OF WARPLANES

The American aircraft industry's drive to arm the United States and the world democracies is showing steadily increasing results in production, employment, payrolls. This pictograph, prepared by the aviation news committee of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America from figures announced by the U.S. office of production management, illustrates the rapid rising rate of warplane production in 1941.

This certainly is eye-filling and heart-warming during such troublous times. Janet Waldo, radio starlet, models a summery play dress out Los Angeles way.

News from Rome tells that the duke and duchess will be crowned king and queen of Croatia and that boundaries of the new independent Croatian state, carved out of Yugoslavia, will be fixed in a conference at Vienna.

How does an English girl react to her first American baseball game? Here's how. She's plenty skeptical . . . but follows a high one, finishes off hot dog, roots at same time . . . and finally decides maybe we have something here. Miss Flora Wright, 21, daughter of an English general, saw game in Cleveland. Now touring U.S. for British war relief, she drove mobile kitchen during toughest days of air blitz.

This young Englishman probably thinks things can't get much worse now that younger set licks candy-coated carrots instead of real all-day suckers. Tragically results from war measure to conserve sugar.

A group of volunteers for the American-British Ambulance Service in Africa are shown aboard the Egyptian liner Zamzam as it sailed from New York on March 19. The vessel has been reported sunk in the South Atlantic between Pernambuco, Brazil and Cape Town, South Africa, and the above group is believed to have still been included in the passenger list. Left to right, front, Charles A. McCarthy, Weston, Mass.; Charles L. Harris, John W. Ryan of Newton, Mass.; Francis J. Vicovar, leader, who had experience in France; Fred W. Tragedy Of Greece

Her stoic face symbolic of the tragedy that now overshadows the glory of Greece, an aged woman sits beside the ruins of her home in Piraeus, Greek port battered by Axis bombers. Beside her is a young boy, possibly her grandson, a hint of the hope that Greece will rise again.

Aliens—Caught In Uncle Sam's Net

In the largest American man-hunt of all time, government officials throughout the U.S. swept down on foreigners, seized those who had failed to register as aliens. Two of the hundreds of aliens rounded up in New York City are pictured above, entering the Ellis Island Barge Office for questioning, under watchful eyes of U.S. seamen and a New York policeman. Scores of men were held for deportation proceedings in New York alone.

Striking with sudden swiftness all over the nation in the first country-wide move to round up aliens who failed to comply with the 1940 registration act, government officials seized thousands of non-citizens and held an unannounced number for deportation proceedings. The alien group above are German seamen shown as they were taken from the German Seamen's Mission in Hoboken, N.J., for questioning on Ellis Island.

British Children Learn Self Reliance

An important problem arising out of the necessity for British women to engage in the various war services is now being solved through the use of creches and day nurseries. Mothers need no longer worry about their children while they work. They are given scientific care at 25 cents a day, of which the state pays six. In this picture a child, almost an infant, is making his own bed with a maximum of concentration and self-reliance, after taking his noon-day nap, while others in the nursery look on with half-sleepy eyes.

 Revenue for the first three months of 1941 was $1,149,223.84 and actual expenditures $1,183,950.61.

This was disclosed in a report by Messrs. Kinross and Aylen, chartered accountants, which will be submitted to the city council at Monday night's meeting.

ESTIMATES EXCEEDED
 Only two departments exceeded their estimates for the period and these by a slight margin. In the city engineer's department expenditures exceeded the budget by $200 while water for fire hydrants shows an increase of $156 above the estimate.

Substantial reductions have been achieved in the other departments in line with the rigid economy order of Mayor John W. Fry and the city commissioners.

The city relief department's expenditures are approximately $2,000 below the estimated $24,200; the engineer's department $200; exhibition grounds and Borden Park, $2,700 and the fire department $1,400 below anticipated expenditures.

Chief increase in revenue are Exhibition grounds and Borden Park, $1,282.35 more than the estimated $2,500; land department, $9,000; approximately in excess of the estimated $21,320; and payments of taxes and surplus from utilities, $4,000 in excess of the $273,000.25 estimated for.

In addition to reducing the floating debt by approximately $200,000 the payment on February 1 of debenture interest and redemption was made also.

Since the auditor's report was written there has been a further improvement in the city's financial position and on May 17 last the bills payable owing to the financial banks have been entirely repaid. At the end of March this item stood at $252,000.

Freedom Urged By Ukrainians After Victory
 That the long struggle of the Ukrainian peoples for a free and independent nation will be realized with the victory of Britain and democratic arms in the present war against Nazi aggression, was the sentiment expressed in a memorandum of the Ukrainian-Canadian Committee, presented to Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King last week.

P. J. Lazarowich, Edmonton barrister, and chairman of the Alberta branch of the Ukrainian-Canadian Committee made the announcement of the presentation. The Canadian-Ukrainians are perturbed over the proposed partition of Poland and the creation of a Polish-Czechoslovak federation, in which it is feared Ukrainian nationals will be included without consultation of these people.

The memorandum draws attention to the declaration by General Wladislaw Sikorski, premier of the Polish Government in exile that the proposed federation would have a population of 30 million inhabitants. It points out that the combined population of Poland, Czechoslovakia does not exceed 35 million and therefore by implication, the general must include a substantial part of the Western Ukrainian territories.

The incorporation of such territories without consent would remain a source of constant trouble for Europe, Canadian-Ukrainians warn. Such incorporation would be nothing short of an act of aggression, the memorandum declares. In pledging the loyalty of Canadian-Ukrainians, in the present struggle the committee urges the claim of the Ukrainians to a free state in a free Europe be given full consideration in a just and permanent peace settlement.

VICTORY BONDS

ARE BETTER THAN CASH

It will be far better to invest money in the forthcoming issue of Victory Bonds than to keep it in cash. Buyers of Victory Bonds during the last war will tell you that. The security for both principal and interest is Canada's unconditional promise to pay.

CANADA IS IN THIS WAR TO WIN. Without Victory our Freedom cannot survive. Money, possessions, even life itself would be imperilled. Right Honourable A.V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said recently:

"Make no mistake about it; if we were defeated, we should perish. Let no one think that any compromise or peace terms could be possible with Hitler in such a case."

You see, therefore, how imperative it is for Canada to marshal all resources in men, materials and money to insure victory. We have the men, we must have the materials, and our people have the money.

Money must be placed at the service of Canada with the same degree of spirit that actuates our soldiers, sailors and airmen.

Help finish the job!

S.C. Candidate Stresses Need Fiscal Reform

It is evident that monetary reform is badly needed, and that power is the proper and only solution of existing economic problems, Dr. A. Kennedy, candidate in the East Edmonton by-election, stated in a statement issued by the Y.P.S. on Sunday, May 26.

He was quoted by Premier William Aberhart and Hon. E. T. Taylor, minister of lands and mines.

Kennedy contended that "The only logical reason for providing an article is that there exists some need for it."

He contended that the amount of money in circulation should be sufficient to meet the needs of the community, but not so large as to cause inflation.

Empire Youth Patriotic Rites Held At McDougall On Sunday

Marking the anniversary of the organization of the Empire Youth Movement, which was founded largely by Canadian youth, a special Empire Youth Patriotic Service was held on Sunday evening at McDougall United Church.

Earlier in the day, a similar service was broadcast from King Edward Memorial Hospital, where an unknown artist spoke the words of the Y.P.S. at the dedication of the new building.

The service was conducted by the young people of the congregation, and the chief speaker was Frank Brown, president of the Y.P.S.

Mr. Brown outlined the aims and ambitions of the movement, and stated that while "we are surrounded on all sides by movements of one sort and another, intent on education of youth of the world, we can only be found in a movement based on Christian ethics."
